

With live web-based classes we push back the limits of what distance training can do. We ensure the connection works, before the class. Then we furnish Expert Instructors with years of practical and training experience. Interactive learning with InterSource is very "hands-on", just like our classroom courses. The teaching process is generally as follows:

1. Instructor explains new concept
2. Instructor shows demo
3. Students do exercise
4. Instructor reviews solution
5. Repeat...

During exercises, the instructor is able to (with your permission) see your computer, so he or she can provide one-on-one assistance to help you debug a problem or work through a solution.