

We have extensive experience in creating training solutions which draw from 2 or more existing courses, and in the creation of an entirely new course. In melding content from different courses into a coherent program which teaches what is needed, and only what is needed, we ensure client's time and budgets are used to optimum effect.